(February 19, 2003 at 0736 hours)

FREY: (beep) It's 7:36 a.m., February 19th.

(phone ringing)

PETERSON: Hello.

FREY: Good morning.

PETERSON: Hey, good morning.

FREY: Did I wake you up?

PETERSON: Um...off and on _____. Just kinda. How are you?

FREY: I'm okay.

PETERSON: Yeah? Are you just getting up?

FREY: Uh...I've been up for a little while.

PETERSON: Really?

FREY: Yeah. Um...

PETERSON: Something wrong?

FREY: Well, I wanted to talk to you um...about a few things.

PETERSON: Sure.

FREY: Are you coherent?

PETERSON: Yeah (chuckle)

FREY: Are you sure?

PETERSON: Yeah.

FREY: Okay. Um...I can't really say in light of current events, but um...(sigh) I don't know really the right...right words to say but I'm just gonna say it.

PETERSON: Okay.

FREY: However it comes out, but um...

PETERSON: Yeah.

FREY: I think right now for me, Scott, and really everything that has happened in the last 50-plus days for myself and...and the family and you and everything that's going in right now, I think it would be best if you and I didn't talk anymore until there's resolution in this whole...

PETERSON: Yeah, I agree with that.

FREY: Good, good.

PETERSON: You're right.

FREY: Okay, well that wasn't so hard.

PETERSON: No, it's the right thing.

FREY: Huh?

PETERSON: It's the right thing so, yeah.

FREY: Okay. So is there anything you want to say before um...I say good-bye?

PETERSON: Yes, I mean, you know, I see the reason. Oh, well, and just be well.

FREY: Likewise.

PETERSON: Okay.

FREY: Okay.

PETERSON: I hope to talk to you in the future.

FREY: Okay, Scott.

PETERSON: Goodbye for now

FREY: Hum?

PETERSON: Goodbye for now.

FREY: Good life now?

PETERSON: Goodbye for now.

FREY: Goodbye, Scott.
